

Elisa Glauber

Alongside pursuing degrees in both Psychology and Public Health at UC Berkeley, Elisa continues to invest in her love for dance both on campus, through student organizations, and off campus at local studios. Deriving inspiration from her training at Hubbard Street Dance Chicago, San Francisco Conservatory of Dance, and American Ballet Theater, Elisa continues to train in ballet, modern, contemporary, and urban techniques. To further involve herself in the East Bay dance community and pay for dance classes, Elisa does administrative work at studios in Berkeley and Oakland, where she also teaches a weekly adult contemporary class. She is very grateful for the exceptional training and care she received throughout her four years at BADS, and intends to always make time for dance to supplement her academic engagements.
